Sky Technology at A Glimpse

Your technical partner, on your way to the sky. That is what we say and believe in Sky Technology, for in our days every company, foundation or organization depends strongly on technologies. It became a necessity for these foundations to find a professional help to share the experiment with. Especially that hiring an internal technical team for these foundations is now very difficult and unwise. Considering the raising needs for every business the high market demand for IT people, the none-stopping high-speed technology expansion, and the information explosion day by day.

From here we started. This is how Sky technology came to existence, and considered the "partnership" method with customers as a universal method to achieve the best for both the sides. We in Sky technology also say: "Once you are in, you are one of us. Once you are one of us, you are never out". This belief strengthen the partnership spirit between us and our customers, and leads both of us to a very unique cooperation with the customer as a business partner, and as a core part of the team who always aim to one basic goal: "project success, for the sake of the whole business success"

What can we do for you?

Besides the fact that the best thing we offer is our unique partnership with you, this partnership includes these professional services in hand:

Office automation software development

Sky Technology is a rapidly growing custom software development as well as a web development and networking services. We specialize in the development of custom business software applications. Our continuous support for our partners in success

It is said that: "if success was difficult, it is more difficult to maintain the success". As we consider our customers as business partners, then he is surely a part of its success. For that, our customer needs our full support to keep this success as achieved at the moment. From this came the idea of the continuous support on every stage of the project. Our customer support starts the moment we negotiate the project scope. It is a continuous process and it does not end by the project delivery, and never stops when the project stops. In the modern business we believe that: "if the project brings you money, do not forget the people who came with this project for you at the first stake". This belief enforces the human relationship on a personal level to succeed with the project. Sky Technology team considers the personal and the social relationship over everything. "We Take it Personally", that's what we say, that is why your success is ours, and the continuity of this success reflects on us, and on our unique relationship with you that does not end when we deliver the project and does not stand for a project or a task only.

In Short Words

If you were ever looking for a partner who looks for your own benefit and success, and got lost in names, addresses, long and short introductions and got really confused in your mind then you started flipping your pages till your eyes caught this logo:

Then be quiet, you got it.

Just open your heart to us, and give us the key to your brightest ideas. You will never find who is closer to you than us, and who is more eager to your valuable ideas than our watchful eyes.
